Reflections at the End of A School Year

Summer is here, School is out and a time for well-earned vacations underway.

The year that began last summer was filled with heart-felt moments watching the children grow. From the onset, we knew organizational change was coming. As a school community, we overcome many challenges together in "2019". For this, all here- teachers, staff, parents, students- the Trinity community- should feel a sense of peace.

Trinity is a unique place. In some respects, unchanged from generations ago. It's not as simple as it was generations ago though. Today, we move forward with great hope that Trinity is indeed "Reimagining" itself to again prosper and be in demand for generations to come.

In this final edition of our community newsletter for the year, you'll find some end-of-year news items and congratulatory stories on yet more achievements from this extraordinary group of students. And be sure to check out Deacon Michael's end-of-school-year article on "The Secret to Happiness". With his wisdom, he simply tells us to relax this summer. Sound counsel, for many, for sure.

And with that, we'll let him have the last word. It's been rewarding keeping you informed. Have a great summer all. God bless Trinity Catholic High.

Sincerely,

The Communications Team

The secret of happiness...

...is not having what you want. What you want is changeable, like the weather. Sometimes you feel full of energy and you want to get outside and experience everything; other times you feel more introspective and just want your own space. You see, we human beings are emotional creatures, but we mustn't be led by our emotions, because they so frequently deceive us.

Trinity Celebrates the Carlons

We had some "late deliveries" on several college alumni junior books recognized at our recent school-wide student recognition ceremony.

Now that they are "in hand," please help us honor Patrick and Maggie Carlon. Patrick received both The Catholic University and The George Washington University book awards, while Maggie was honored by The University of Virginia with its Jefferson Award.

In addition, at our 2019 Commencement Ceremony, Maggie was joined by her and Patrick's sister, Grace, as flag-bearers, leading The Academic procession.

The triplets are the wonderfully accomplished children of Nicole and Michael Carlon. In our long-standing and proud tradition of "Trinity Families," dad Mike, along with his brother Jim, are members of our Class of 1992. Pictured with the Carlon sisters is junior Matt Dougherty, son of Ellen and Tom Dougherty; dad is another proud alum: Stamford Catholic High School, Class of 1979. Family and faith are in strong evidence at our school community.
